Europe Fears New Coup by Hitler

Nazis Say Reports Of Danzig 'Putsch' Only Wild Rumors

Danzigers, However, Ready for Return to Reich; Chief Capitals Express Fears

Pledge of Arms

Poland Is Nation to Decide Whether France, Britain Must Resist

(By The Associated Press)
Europe's capitals pushed their far eastern anxieties into the background today as fears were expressed in London, Paris and Warsaw that Adolf Hitler was planning a coup, perhaps this week-end, to regain for Germany the free city of Danzig, Baltic port taken from her at the end of the World War.

In Danzig itself, Nazi-controlled official sources ridiculed foreign reports that a "free corps" was being organized there and that Germans were pouring into the city in disguise; they said these reports were an "alarming of the public which is by no means warranted." In Germany Hitler's newspaper scoffed at "wild rumors over an immediate coup in Danzig."

Nevertheless Danzigers were prepared for a homecoming to the Reich. Only two weeks ago German Propaganda Minister Goebbels told them they would return to Germany, and told them simply to wait for the Führer to act.

British Fears
The British press expressed fears that the Nazis were "preparing mischief" this week-end in Danzig and prominently displayed accounts of the veteran statesman Winston Churchill's warning for the Führer to pause before the "plunge."

The press of Paris, also tense in anticipation of possible Danzig action, suggested a combined British-French-Polish warning to Germany that seizure of Danzig would mean war.

In connection with his question—whether it would mean war—the president of Poland, Ignace Moscicki, made a significant speech to the Polish people today. He implied that it might. Great Britain and France are pledged to help Poland in these words, pronounced by Prime Minister Chamberlain on March 31, just two weeks after Germany annexed Bohemia and Moravia.

"In the event of any action which clearly threatened Polish independence and which the Polish government accordingly considered it vital to resist with their national forces, His Majesty's government would feel themselves bound at once to lend the Polish government all support of their power."

France is similarly pledged.

President Speaks
Today, with the Polish government the one to decide whether to resist in event of an attempt to seize Danzig, President Moscicki told his nation in a radio address that the Polish Corridor and its seacoast were "the air and sun of our existence as a state."

"In the event of any action which clearly threatened Polish independence and which the Polish government accordingly considered it vital to resist with their national forces, His Majesty's government would feel themselves bound at once to lend the Polish government all support of their power."

Archer Who Finishes Show in Gloom Says He'd Not Attempt It Again

Amarillo, Texas, June 29 (AP)—Ken Wilhelm, archer, put to shame the feat of William Tell, "but wouldn't do the shot again for one hundred thousand dollars."

Wilhelm, performer in the Southwest Sportsmen's show, had finished most of his routine when a cloudburst caused the lights to go out. He asked the announcer to say his last bit, shooting an apple from the head of Monty Montgomery, newspaper woman, would be performed by daylight.

In the poor light and heavy shadows, he drove the arrow through the apple on the fifth shot. He started shooting about four inches above the apple and worked his shots down.

Borah Gives Opinion On 1940 Presidency

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) took time on his seventy-fourth birthday anniversary today to express the opinion that the American people would not accept a reactionary candidate for the presidency in 1940.

"Some of the party leaders," said the senator's dean, "have failed to realize that there was a political revolution when the country first elected President Roosevelt in 1932. That revolution came from the heart of the people."

"They were tired of the country's being run by those who held to the theory that a few men should control the machinery of government. In my judgment, the people haven't changed their minds about that."

Pilot Takes His Glider to Record

New American Record Set at 16,000 Feet in Meet; Requires 15 Minutes

Elmira, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Lieut. Robert N. Stanley rode a motorless glider up through a gathering storm cloud 16,400 feet in 15 minutes for a new American record and when he came down he did a dozen loops "just to relax."

The Pensacola naval air base flier more than doubled the previous American glider altitude mark in his turbulent trip aloft yesterday. Today he nursed a lame back he said he suffered trying to stay in his seat, broken during the ride.

Stanley said the thundercloud was small when he entered the bottom, but formed so rapidly during the 15 minutes he was inside it appeared as a "huge mountain" extending upwards another 10,000 feet, when he emerged.

He described the cloud as so thick and dark, he could not see the wings of his ship. "But I had no time to look anyway," he added.

Andrew N. Kiraly Remains in Serious Condition at Hospital; Blast Cause Is Not Learned

Andrew N. Kiraly, 27, of 24 St. Mary's street, powdermaker at the Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen, remains in serious condition at the Kingston Hospital today, following an explosion in the room where he worked at the plant yesterday afternoon.

Kiraly, knocked unconscious in the accident, was saved from possible immediate death by Fred Wolven, an employee of the plant from New Salem, who removed the injured man from the room which had caught fire, after the explosion.

The explosion, which was not considered serious in itself, was of sufficient force to cause serious injuries to the powdermaker who was alone in the small detached mixing room of the plant at the time. The cause of the explosion will probably remain unknown until Kiraly recovers.

Mixing Chemicals
Kiraly was engaged in mixing chemicals for a high explosive, when there was an explosion which set fire to the building. As is customary no one else was in that immediate vicinity and just what happened is not known.

Kiraly was badly burned about the face and hands by the explosion and apparently was rendered unconscious as he made no effort to leave the burning structure. Beside the burns about the face and hands his left arm was injured and he was considerably burned about the body.

The accident happened about 3 o'clock as Kiraly was compounding the ingredients for the explosive. At the time there was about a pound of the mixture in the house and the explosion was of a minor nature although sufficient to do considerable damage and start a brisk fire.

This is the first accident of a serious nature at the plant in approximately six years.

Buckner Rests His Case in U. S. Court; Denies Any Waste

Gillespie and Turner Offer No Defense; Buckner Says the Expenses Were Legitimate

New York, June 29 (AP)—William P. Buckner, Jr., debonair young promoter and friend of movie stars, rested his case in federal court today after testifying for three days against charges that he conspired to defraud holders of Philippine Railway bonds.

Two of his four co-defendants, Brokers William J. Gillespie and C. Wesley Turner, also rested. They offered no defense.

Capt. John Stuart Hyde, another defendant, was called to the stand. It was indicated by defense counsel that Felipe Buencamino, member of the Philippine Legislature, also would testify in his own defense.

Perspiring freely, the young promoter left the stand late yesterday after three days of describing his activity as chairman of the Philippine bondholders' protective committee.

Denies Wasting Funds
Buckner denied wasting funds raised by the committee to obtain government redemption of the defaulted bonds and defended as legitimate expense bills incurred while entertaining Washington legislators whose aid he sought.

Near the end of his long ordeal, Buckner was savagely cross-examined by David Leavenworth, attorney for Capt. John Stuart Hyde, Hollywood producer and co-defendant.

Leavenworth, conferring frequently with government attorneys, attempted to show that Hyde had played no culpable role in the alleged conspiracy, that his part had been only to introduce C. W. Turner, another defendant, to Hollywood notables who might have been willing to invest.

Morgenthau Voices Opposition to Cut In Money Powers

Says Farmers, Businessmen and Laborers Better Start Worrying About Dollar, if Denied

Little Time

If No Bill Passes Before Friday Midnight, Power Expires

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau voiced the administration's unflinching opposition to curtailment of President Roosevelt's monetary powers today with an assertion that "farmers, businessmen and laborers had better start worrying about the dollar" if devaluation authority is not continued.

While Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader Rayburn conferred with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House about the bitter congressional contest over the president's emergency powers over money, the treasury secretary told his press conference:

"Certainly since 1934, no farmer, businessman or laborer need to worry about the dollar, but they had better start worrying now if the devaluation power lapses tomorrow night."

Apparently the main hope of the administration in preventing that lapse was to work out in a conference committee of senators and representatives some compromise of senate restrictions in the pending monetary bill which would split a coalition of hard-money Republicans and silver-state senators.

These groups joined to write into the bill a treasury price of 77.57 cents an ounce for domestic silver and to vote an end to the president's authority to devalue the dollar further.

Little time remains. If no bill is passed before Friday midnight, the devaluation power as well as the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund expire automatically.

Rayburn, back at the capitol, predicted to reporters congress would complete action by tomorrow night on the monetary bill and all other legislation essential to get through before the fiscal year ends.

It was indicated he had told President Roosevelt the same thing, and this led to speculation that he and Barkley may have been optimistic in their discussions over the final outcome of the monetary fight. It was learned that Rayburn told the President the House never would agree to any curtailment of his monetary power.

Rayburn said the relief bill, approved by the Senate in today's early hours and swiftly sent by the House to a joint conference as soon as the chamber met today, also would be finished in time to become law. He added it was the leadership's intention to keep the House in session into tonight if necessary to finish action on the pending neutrality bill.

Sombre Expression

Secretary Morgenthau wore an unusually sombre expression as reporters trooped into his high-ceilinged office in the time-worn Treasury building. "Just didn't know," he said, "what would happen about gold, silver or other monetary factors if Congress did not pass the bill to extend expiring powers by tomorrow night."

Also, he said, that in case the monetary bill was delayed he did not know whether the Treasury would buy any domestic silver after tomorrow night until the bill finally was passed.

At the time Morgenthau spoke, the London price had sagged another half cent, indicating the Treasury price might be cut again at noon, eastern standard (Continued on Page 22)

Banks to Consider Reduced Interest

Action Will Be Taken at Meeting Tomorrow to Cut Present 2% Rate

At a meeting to be held Friday morning action will be taken by local bankers on the proposition of reducing the interest rate on time deposits. At present the rate is 2 per cent and it is proposed to reduce that rate to 1 1/2 per cent.

Several of the local state and national banks have already held meetings at which the directors have taken action and empowered their committee to act at the meeting Friday. It is understood that there is a difference of opinion as to whether the rate should be reduced but that the reduction will be voted. Inability of the banking houses to invest money in short time investments at a rate of interest which will bring adequate return to pay time depositors the present rate is the reason given for the action.

Many banking institutions in other cities have for some time been paying as low as 1 1/2 per cent.

'Sit Down Strike' By Republicans Is Threat to Budget

Group of Five Holding Out for Action on Sales Tax, May Take Majority Vote From Party

Asks Trained Men

Poughkeepsie Asks Money Experts in State Education Department

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Threat of a "sit down strike" by a small bloc of Republican legislators holding out for action on a state wide sales tax, endangered today prompt special session adoption of the party's reconditioned "thrill" budget.

First warning the Republican majority may lack sufficient votes to swiftly pass the spending program came as a vote tomorrow completed for a vote tomorrow their revision of the invalidated use of "lump sums" to shave $25,000,000 from Democratic Governor Lehman's $415,000,000 itemized appropriations.

Final proofs of the new budget, retaining all previous savings, went back to the printers today and one Republican fiscal advisor said "the revised bill will be on the desks of legislators tomorrow morning." Governor Lehman is expected to provide a special message to circumvent the usual requirement the measure lie on the desks three days before a vote.

Assemblyman Pat E. Provenzano, Rochester Republican, said the five Monroe county assemblymen are "definitely not tied up" to vote for the new budget section appropriating $120,000,000 for operation of state departments.

"We find no fault with the $10,000,000 cut in state aid for education or other reductions," he said, "but we are not going to vote for the budget until we are ready."

Effort to Delay Passage

Leaders interpreted the statement as an effort to delay passage of the measure until Provenzano and other proponents of a sales tax for local relief financing can obtain assurance of consideration of such a levy at the next session or force a message from the governor permitting immediate action.

Legislators were urged by the Poughkeepsie Taxpayers' Association, Inc., to consider a law giving "trained business executives" the administration of the State Education Department instead of educators with "utter inability to handle vast sums of money efficiently."

"The fact that the business administrators of our schools openly admit their inability to absorb a mere three to five per cent reduction in expenses," Robert C. Daniels, association president, wrote leaders, "is ample proof that the taxpayer is the victim of men untrained for their jobs."

In New York City, James Marshall, president of the New York City Board of Education, announced a state-wide committee would seek an immediate conference with legislative leaders in an effort to have school appropriation cuts restored.

Allan S. Haywood, president of the State Industrial Union Council (CIO), called a conference here today of leaders of all CIO unions in the state to discuss proposed budget economies as a "serious threat" to the labor movement.

Speedy Agreement By Both Branches Needed by Friday

Compromise With House Bill Appropriating $1,735,000,000 Next Necessary Move in Congress

Projects Fight

Battle Develops Over WPA Theatre and Art; Funds Provided

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The House quickly voted another $75,000 for continuing its WPA investigation today and simultaneously sped the $1,808,300,000 relief bill toward final enactment.

Both steps were the first order of business when the chamber convened an hour earlier than usual. The Senate, after more than 14 hours of continuous debate, had passed the big relief bill at an early hour today by a 55-0 vote.

Brought before the representatives, they promptly sent the message to a conference committee for adjusting differences. Democratic Leader Rayburn predicted it would become law before the fiscal year-end at midnight tomorrow.

The additional $75,000 of investigating money went to the appropriations committee, which had $3,000 of a previous fund remaining. The committee will report to the next session.

Longest Session

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The Senate, finishing strong after more than 14 hectic hours of continuous debate, voted 55-0 early today to authorize $1,808,300,000 for relief during the fiscal year starting Saturday.

Aware that a compromise must be reached with a $1,735,000,000 House bill before midnight tomorrow if all relief is not to be suspended, administration leaders drove the chamber relentlessly through an almost interminable series of amendments up to the final ballot at 1:05 a. m. E. S. T.

The session, longest of the current session, began at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Leaders expressed belief that speedy conciliation of the differences between the House and Senate bills would be accomplished, making possible final action before the deadline.

They predicted that the House would agree to the Senate's refusal to earmark $125,000,000 for the Public Works Administration, and to its substitution of a single WPA administrator for the three-man board voted by the House. The administration favors the Senate version of both these provisions.

Hours before debate on the bill had developed into a marathon, the Senate voted 43-32 against a $500,000,000 allocation for PWA and voted 38 to 38 against half that sum.

After Senator Reynolds (D, N. C.) had started a lengthy argument at dinner time over a proposed appropriation for the WPA theatre project, contending it was "spreading communist propaganda," the leadership clamped on a strict debate limitation which brought staccato action on proposal after proposal through the evening.

Spending forces succeeded in increasing by $400,000,000 the House allocation of $123,000,000 for the farm security administration, boosted the national youth administration allotment by $23,000,000, and won a 43-19 majority (Continued on Page 22)

New Farm Unit

Detroit, June 29 (AP)—The mechanized farming unit which Henry Ford asserts will "revolutionize agriculture" and "make the horse and other draft animals economically obsolete" was brought out for its first public demonstration today.

It was shown in the process of construction on an assembly line at Ford's River Rouge factory and in action on the acres adjoining the Ford home in suburban Dearborn.

The motor manufacturer described the new tractor and its related implements, the invention of Harry G. Ferguson, an Irish engineer, as an economical, fool-proof and practically automatic unit that "will displace the horse on the farm just as the automobile displaced him on the road."

Largest Woollen Mill
The largest homespun woollen industry in the world—the Butmore Homespun shop—is located in Asheville, N. C. Originated in 1901 by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to furnish employment for a few mountain people in her neighborhood, it has grown steadily ever since, employing at present around 60 people. After the industry became well-established, Mrs. Vanderbilt sold it and the shops were moved to the Grove Park Inn estate on the outskirts of Asheville.
Most of the raw wool used comes from Australia, Wales, Scotland, and the Shetland Islands. It is first dyed, then dried by natural air, no artificial heat being used. The colors are mixed, fibers broken up, wool re-rolled and then run through carding machines onto spinning frames. Power-driven machines are used for these processes and for setting up the warp on the loom, but the actual weaving is done entirely by hand on hand looms. Two types of weaving are done, plain and diagonal. Weavers are paid by the yard, the average individual being able to weave from 12 to 15 yards a day. The material, which is sold retail, is obtainable only at the plant.

Atomized Aluminum May Banish Feared Silicosis

Finely atomized aluminum inhaled into the lungs may banish silicosis, dread lung disease contracted by those who work in atmospheres of silica dust, according to a patent (No. 2,158,378) issued to James J. Denny and Wilmet D. Robson of Schumacher, Ont., who are research workers at a large Canadian mine.
The aluminum powder, assert the discoverers of the treatment, neutralizes the silica-producing properties of silica. They explain that as a result of experiments it has been "proven that when fine particles of silicaceous materials are brought in contact with alkaline fluids a chemical change in the silica particles takes place. The fluid in the lungs of humans being alkaline, the inhalation of such silicaceous particles results in a chemical change in lung cells which produces a toxic condition causing the death of tissue cells and the production of fibrous (scar) tissue, resulting in fibrosis of lung structure."
Inhaling aluminum powder in small amounts of 1 per cent checks this chemical reaction which results in toxic acids that destroy lung cells, it is said.
In factories the aluminum dust would be disseminated by the circulating fans. In mines, when blasting rock, cartridges of the pulverized aluminum would be exploded at the same time as the rock-shattering explosive, so that aluminum would be disseminated in the rock dust raised.
The inventors have reported their discovery to the Academy of Medicine at Toronto, it is set forth in the patent.

New Form of Insulin Is Patented by Doctor

Alum-insulin, a new, improved form of insulin for treating diabetes, which is said to be slowly absorbed in the system, thus avoiding shock, and which is stable and non-toxic, has been developed at the Israel-Zion hospital of New York, according to a patent granted to Dr. Lazar Rosenthal and Jonas Kamlet of Brooklyn.
When injected in a diabetic patient, alum-insulin has been found to function as a "supply depot," slowly liberating and yielding substantially constant and uniform amounts of insulin available for absorption by the blood stream. One injection a day is all that is required for treatment of diabetes.
The alum-insulin is simply prepared by adding an aqueous solution of alum to an acid solution or suspension of insulin. The result of the mixture is the formation of a copious precipitate which is a new compound of alum and insulin. When suspended in water it may be injected in the blood stream.
Tests carried out at the Israel-Zion hospital on diabetic patients indicate the superiority of the alum-insulin over plain insulin and protamine insulin, the patent papers claim.

The only fool like an old one is a young one.

Pulse as a Time-keeper

You carry a fair-to-middling time-keeper, right on your wrist. It is an individual time-piece and before you can use it, you have to test it against a good watch which indicates seconds about 36 times to the half minute, while the person is still. Try out your own and see what your figure is. The pulse is a useful timer—it was used quite extensively before watches came out. Galileo used it in his discovery of the principle of the pendulum—one of the first and basic discoveries in science. But with the advent of watches with second hands, this method went out. Today, few people ever look at second hand on their watches from year's end to year's end.

JAP TROUBLE

The Japanese, already up to their necks in the Chinese war, are gluttons for trouble. They insist on sticking their necks out. And it is hard to tell, from the present situation, whether this is arrogance or hysteria.

The Tokyo war lords certainly have not won their Chinese war, although they are in possession of the seaports and various inland cities and mineral regions. The Chinese stubbornly refuse to be conquered, and by their guerrilla warfare keep the army of occupation, a million men or more, continually on the defensive on fronts aggregating thousands of miles.

The invaders seize this time, when their war is stalled, to attack and humiliate the British, whom they always before held in respect and fear. At the same time they get into a minor undeclared war with the Russians on the border of Outer Mongolia. They also give the French a furtive kick when they get a chance, and might at any moment enrage America by further disregard of our rights and interests in China. And they are cheered on by their Nazi partners, who probably put them up to it.

The British Lion, however, is beginning to roar. Britain is seriously involved in Europe, but for the sake of its empire, particularly in Asia and Australia, cannot allow itself to be further humiliated by Japan.

America naturally is not looking for trouble, and the Japanese apparently do not want trouble with us, but there may come a roar from Washington almost any day now, to bring the little yellow war lords to their senses—if they have any left.

ROYAL DEMOCRATS

The Crown Prince and Princess, Olav and Martha of Norway, now touring this country, are meeting with a reception comparable, in a smaller way of course, with that given the British King and Queen. They are a handsome, intelligent and likeable pair, and extremely democratic. They seem able to mix with any American crowd and get along with any of us, and are what we like to call "real folks."

Considering such high matters, a light begins to break over some of us slow-minded people. We begin to suspect that, after all, aristocracy when it is the real thing is a sort of democracy, and aristocrats make the best democrats. Kings and queens and lords and ladies can afford to unbend, because they are at the top and above competition.

We have had some interesting examples, of a sort, in our own history. Washington and Jefferson, who more than any other Americans, perhaps, were responsible for our democratic institutions, were aristocrats.

CHILDREN WITHOUT HATRED

School children of St. Louis are growing more patriotic. In a study made by the Psychological Service Center of that city, it was found that love of country increased in the years from 1934 to 1939.

This seems natural. There has been more discussion of patriotism in homes, schools and newspapers. The children no doubt have been made more aware of their country as a nation and a geographical unit. They take many of their opinions unconsciously from the adults around them, so adults must be expressing more appreciation of the blessings and beauties of the United States.

Children seem slow in taking one set of opinions from their elders. The psychologist-observers report that they are more tolerant and less nationalistic than adults. Class and racial animosities are not natural to them. It seems not only a great pity, but a crime against humanity, to teach children intolerance and aggressive nationalism.

SPEED AND IMPATIENCE

Johnny thinks it's tough that he has to wash the car before he can join the neighborhood gang in a Saturday baseball game. Dad, on the other hand, says that when he was Johnny's age he had three horses and two cows to keep clean, to say nothing of other chores.

Dad doesn't remember all the changes that have taken place since he was a boy. He gets sore if he misses a street car, although there's another in sight a few blocks away. His dad was more philosophic when he missed a train to the city and had to wait twenty-four hours for the next one.

Do modern machinery and conveniences, which really save us time and labor, make us less patient and less contented? Or are we simply not yet adjusted mentally to contemporary speed and invention?

THE CALM VOICE

Sir William Crawford, a veteran English advertising expert who has been visiting our country lately, and likes America and Americans, gave a valuable suggestion in a final broadcast.

"Understatement is always more effective than over-statement," he said, "and the calm voice is better than the loud voice."

These principles are probably as sound in business life as in private life. Generally the bigger and the more intelligent people are, the more calmly and modestly they speak and write.

Our advertising people have mostly learned this principle, but it is surprising how many radio advertisers and announcers have it still to learn. Millions of people who would listen to quiet and rational appeals tune out the shouters or turn off the radio.

The Japs say they'll keep on annoying Britain as long as Britain keeps on "helping China." That's probably the first China has heard about such help.

Success depends more on friends than on brains, says an expert. Still, an occasional brain is not to be scorned.

We begin to see the solution of our economic problems. We'll all get along by paying ourselves pensions.

Summer Note: An arctic expedition has just left Maine to spend the summer studying icebergs—lucky dogs!

Life in America lately is just one visiting royalty after another.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

 SYMPTOMS SIMILAR TO GALL BLADDER TROUBLE

As examination shows that about two out of every three individuals past the age of fifty have some trouble with their gall bladder it is only natural that operation for drainage or removal of the gall bladder is now so common. However, if everybody with some gall bladder disturbance were to undergo operations, surgeons would not only be unable to perform these operations but there would be no time for any other operations.

It has been found that when gall stones are present and there have been attacks of gall stone colic, operation gives practically complete relief and the death rate now from operation is very low indeed. When, however, there are no gall stones present, no attacks of real gall stone colic, yet the symptoms apparently point to the gall bladder as being the cause of the trouble, physicians and surgeons now are treating these cases with diet and medicine, and instead of operating, are looking for other possible causes for these symptoms.

It is admitted that most gas pains, unless caused by gas-forming foods, are due to a sluggish liver and gall bladder, but there are other symptoms such as pain in various parts of the abdomen—high, low, and on either side—which may be due to other causes than gall stones.

Dr. M. J. Brown in American Journal of Surgery, says: "From the results of various physicians and my own 300 cases, I feel that patients with gall bladder inflammation but no gall stones present, should not undergo operation on the gall bladder until a complete examination is made and six months of medical treatment tried. In a certain number of cases, the final finding will be found to be chronic appendicitis, inflammation of the nerves between the ribs (intercostal neuritis), hydronephrosis (cyst of kidney), ulcer of stomach or intestine, or irritable large bowel."

The thought then is that when the dye test and X rays show no gall stones, yet the pain and other symptoms point to gall bladder disturbance, physicians are now treating the case with medicine and diet instead of surgery, as one of these other conditions may be causing the symptoms.

Hanes Gives Enlightening Doctrine on Income Taxes and Their Effect on Business Progress Here
 By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 29.—While Congress indulges in spending spree and plays politics, there are members of the administration who are trying in the most constructive way to bring about economic recovery.

The secretary of John W. Hanes, under secretary of the treasury, is a case in point. His statement was made before the House ways and means committee as a contribution to the general subject of removing tax-exemption from government securities, but at the same time he delivered himself of some very enlightening doctrine on the subject of income taxes and how they retard business progress in America.

There is much more attention being given today than for several years to the problem of how to get "equity money" moving in America, how the idle dollars in banks can be transformed into active instrumentalities for the rebuilding of the business curve. But the theory of "equity money" is not often explored. Mr. Hanes points out that the high surtaxes give the treasury very little money, relatively speaking, but create a situation which discourages the investment of capital.

"While we are, of course, interested," he said, "in the maintenance and increase in the public revenue, a much more important consideration is the health and expansion of the economy. I have already pointed out the role which investment in enterprise plays in our economic life. I should like to stress again the importance of that investment. The employable population of the country is increasing each year at the rate of about 600,000. Several thousand dollars of capital are required to give employment to each person. It is, accordingly, highly important that conditions be made favorable to such investment."

"I have already pointed out how the existence of tax-exempt securities acts to discourage the investment of venture money. It is, perhaps unnecessary to point out also that even aside from tax-exempt securities, the effect of high income tax rates is similarly to discourage investments of this kind. The effect of high taxation in discouraging investment in securities having substantial elements of risk as compared with safe securities may be indicated by an illustration."

"Let us assume that a person in investing funds has an opportunity to invest in a 2 per cent net rate in an investment that is free of risk. Let us assume also that he has an opportunity to place his funds in an investment in which there is a 50-50 chance that the principal invested will deteriorate so as to be worth only 50 cents on the dollar at the end of 10 years.

"In this case if there is no tax and the investor requires no bonus for taking the risk, the gross interest rate required in the case of the second investment would have to be 8.15 per cent per annum to be equal to the 3 per cent net rate free of risk.

"Now let us consider the case if an annual 60 per cent income tax is in effect. The gross interest rate on the risky investment would have to be 14.4 per cent to make it equal to the risk-free investment.

"High surtax rates are sometimes defended on the grounds that persons with large incomes hoard their funds, neither spending nor investing them. It is urged that a high tax by bringing money into circulation would help to restore prosperity. Hoarding of the type mentioned takes place only during limited parts of the business cycle. The determining influence of heavy taxes would operate to create permanently the very situation that is sought to be corrected temporarily. That is, when heavy taxation discourages investment, the result is likely to be more idle funds than less.

"The fact that the top surtax rates apply only to a few persons does not mean that they affect the investment decisions of only those persons. The psychological effect of having high surtax rates continually discussed in the press and in private conversation is unfortunate since taxpayers whose incomes are much too small to be subject to such rates are inclined to consider their tax burdens as if they were subject to them."

Every word of the foregoing quoted passage is many years old. It has been said over and over again since the high surtax rates were imposed, but the important fact is that no high official in the present administration has said them. What is significant is that tax doctrine is being considered intelligently in relation to economic recovery. Congress knows there is a trivial amount of total revenue, relatively speaking, in these high brackets, but the deterring effect of these prohibitive rates runs through the entire business structure. The treasury would actually gain many times the revenue subtracted from high bracket taxation if it stimulated business so that tax receipts generally would increase. Community greed is at the fag end of the session, but to correct a legitimate complaint from the citizens, it is never too late, especially when the correction may mean jobs to millions of persons now on relief. Highland Church 70th Anniversary

Highland, June 28.—In observance of the 70 years of the present edifice of the Methodist Church a special service was held Sunday morning when the pastor, the Rev. Samuel Art. The choir from the old organ loft sang two hymns, "Rock of Ages" and "Happy Day" without organ accompaniment. Old hymns were used during the service and Harry Vandervoort sang the verses of "I Know My Redeemer Liveth," while the choir hummed the chorus. During the 70 years there had been 28 ministers and seven are living. The Rev. Edwin Hunt of Kingston was expected to be present but owing to illness was unable to attend. Messages were read from the Rev. J. Lewis Hartsock from Maryland, the Rev. Jesse Codrington, the Rev. Foster A. Coons, the Rev. Richard Braunstein, the Rev. Obed Macer, the Rev. Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
 Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q—Should operators refrain from turning on headlights until it is almost dark?

A—No. Cars driven with only parking lights lighted are difficult to see when most other operators are using headlights.

Q—May fog lights be used instead of headlights?

A—No. Headlights are required whenever the highway is not sufficiently well lighted to reveal persons or substantial objects 350 ft. ahead. The law allows no substitute.

Q—Are intermittently flashing lights advisable for use on cars?

A—No. Except in signals indicating turns.

Q—Is the candlepower of bulbs used in motor vehicles limited by law?

A—Yes. 32 candlepower for headlamps and 21 candlepower for other lamps.

Q—Are directional signals required on house trailers?

A—Yes, in nearly all cases. The law requires directional signals when the hand signal can not be given clearly to traffic ahead and behind.

Q—Is a rear reflector required on the rear of passenger cars?

A—Yes. In nearly all cases manufacturers have provided the reflector in the tail light lens. If the lens is broken, the owner should see that the replacement lens is one of an approved type. Otherwise he may become a violator of the reflector law.

College Advises Job-Seekers
To Leave High Hats at Home

(By The AP Feature Service)

Cambridge, Mass.—When Radcliffe graduates start job-hunting, the chances are they will have a little booklet tucked under their arms. It's called "Looking Ahead," and tells the applicant just how to be heard by the personnel manager in his den.

The booklet, sponsored by the Radcliffe appointment bureau, gives much-needed practical advice to girls whose previous concerns have been with the works of Chaucer, or the 18th century novel.

Girls should strive for "good manners, pleasant voices, good taste in dress, emotional stability. Without these a Phi Beta Kappa key is worthless."

Here are some employers' criticisms mentioned in the booklet. College girls generally think they are too good to be asked to do routine work.

They expect too rapid advancement.

They expect executive positions without previous experience.

They are unwilling to subordinate their social and personal lives to their jobs.

They refuse to do their best at little jobs in order to prove themselves worthy of the big ones.

Included in advice for the interview is strong suggestion to arrive on time.

"If you have to wait, do not smoke," the Radcliffe girls are told. "This is a business, not a social engagement... Avoid elaborate costume jewelry... Do not use perfume... Remember that most employers thoroughly dislike red finger nails and obvious make-up, especially too much lipstick."

James E. Twaddell Dies Wednesday

James E. Twaddell of Woodstock died Wednesday at the Bonesteel Sanitarium in Saugerties after an illness of about two weeks.

Mr. Twaddell was one of the oldest residents of Ulster county and was widely known as a horseman. His exact age was not known but it is believed that he was about 92 years of age. A resident of Woodstock for many years he was known familiarly as "Jim" to practically every person in the village.

Prior to coming to Woodstock Mr. Twaddell had resided in the southwest where he bore a reputation as horseman of note. During his residence there he was a trainer of race horses and was considered an expert horseman. He came to New York state many years ago and for a time was superintendent of a tannery at Moose River, near Booneville.

For several years Mr. Twaddell had led a retired life but prior to that he had been engaged in the stage business, driving the mail by horse and buggy between the railroad at West Hurley and Bearsville and Willow.

Mr. Twaddell has no near relatives and is survived by several nieces and nephews, some of whom reside in New York and others in the southwest. Funeral services will be held from the funeral parlors of Victor N. Lasher at Woodstock, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, pastor of the Woodstock Reformed Church, in charge.

Golden Dolphins Guard

Japanese Feudal Castle

Two golden dolphins, together worth more than a million dollars in bullion alone, adorn the great feudal castle that watches over Nagoya, Japanese city of modern bustle and ancient charm. One of the talismanic fishes stands on the topmost roof of the castle and throws its sparkling beams for miles around, so that tourists passing Nagoya even by railway cannot miss the sight.

The castle, built in Japan's feudal days for defense and war, was adorned with the golden dolphins by one Kato Kiyomasa, one of the nation's historic heroes, because of their legendary virtue in warding off fires. And while one or two mishaps have happened to the dolphins themselves, the castle has remained unharmed by fire or war.

American visitors to Nagoya visit the castle first. To walk on the clean-swept, spacious gravel paths between the outer and the inner moats is an inspiration; it conjures up a charmed sphere of romance and heroism. The "donjon," soaring high, fresh, and majestic in its sweeping outline, stands just as it did three centuries ago, and in its grand, mysterious way evokes the storied past.

New Tobacco Paper

Cuba will shortly issue postal paper to let the world know that one of the island republic's chief industries is tobacco raising and cigar making. The three initial values of a regular series will appear in July. The one-cent picture one of the island's original inhabitants, a Siboney Indian, cigar in left hand, against a background of native landscape, and within foliage at right is a cigar with its band adorned with the lone star which is Cuba's national symbol; "Tabaco Habano" (Havana tobacco) is inscribed. The two-cent with the same wording illustrates a cigar superimposed on a wreath-enclosed hemisphere. On the five-cent are a box of "Tabaco Habano" in lower right and a tobacco plant in upper left.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: The wolfhound Lily, who looks like a juggernaut, the dog, corners a young lady in Central Park. She is none other than Packy North. Tacks sees possibilities in the situation.

Chapter 20

Sheer Blackmail

PACKY glanced quickly at Lily, then snapped her fingers. "I'll ask the first person that comes by to drive this dog away."

"Oh, no, you won't," answered Tacks. "It would embarrass you too much. I know your type. You try to give the impression of being strong and self-reliant. That's a lot of hokey, of course. It's obvious that you can't cope with an everyday Irish wolfhound. Furthermore, you'd never call the attention of a level stranger to a skirt in that condition. It would be—er—ah—unwomanly."

Packy compressed her lips. "I think," she said, "that you are the most loathsome, detestable person in New York."

"That's a sweeping generalization," said Tacks. "But, if it's your opinion, why stick around?"

Goaded beyond endurance, Packy placed a foot tentatively on the path. It was not the proper move. Lily, robbed of her romps, had decided upon an embattled attitude. She growled menacingly. Packy hastily withdrew the foot.

"You see," said Tacks, "that dog isn't going to stand any nonsense. Now I'll tell you what I'll do, Miss North. You've treated me shamefully but I'll overlook that if—"

White-lipped, Packy interrupted. "You'd bargain with me, you miserable creature?"

Tacks lit a cigarette. "I would, indeed."

"I'm going to scream," Packy said, with decision.

"Go to it. There's nobody in sight and those Fifth Avenue buses are making a terrible racket. I doubt if you'll be heard."

But you'd better do something. Because that dog's not going to wait all night. She could climb that stone thing and get you any minute. In fact, she seems to be getting a little restless now. She's only—he favored himself with a pat on the back—"deterred because I'm here."

For a brief moment Packy became conversational.

"Where," she asked, "do you suppose this dog came from? Certainly nobody would keep a dog like that in New York."

"Oh, you never now," Tacks said. "New Yorkers do funny things. I had a pal once who kept a barracuda in the bathtub. That was an isolated case, of course, but you'd be surprised at the number of vicious dogs, like this one here, running at large in the city. Some of them have—what do you call that thing, anyhow—hydrophobia."

"You're just trying to scare me."

"Ha! Scaring you would be carrying coals to Newcastle. That dog's got you jittering like tomato soup in a high wind. But, to get down to brass tacks, I'm willing to offer my services."

"If I do something for you, I suppose," Packy's lip curled.

"Precisely," said Mr. Adams, with great calm.

"Well, I won't do it."

Goodby Gesture

TACKS got up off the coping. Packy's voice had sounded very resolute and it looked as if he were licked. He decided, however, to brazen this thing out a little further. A girl, gazing at the retreating back of a once-prospective rescuer, has been known to change her mind. He lifted his hat.

"Well, Miss North," he said, "it's been nice to see you. I hope you pass a comfortable night decorating that fence. Well, good night. Sorry you wouldn't listen to reason."

He turned his back and took a couple of tentative steps to the southward. Packy but her lip. Much as she detested this Adams, his society had not been unwelcome for the last few moments. Of course, he was the world's meanest man. But that didn't alter the fact that in a second or two she'd have no man at all between her and this werewolf who blocked the fairway.

And right then the werewolf caused her to change her mind. Seeing Mr. Adams about to depart, Lily arose clumsily. She supposed it fell to her unhappily lot to accompany this ill-advised whithering. He wandered off. It was a tough break, having to relinquish this new-found acquaintance with a handsome way. But, if leave she must, she would at least observe the social amenities. A departure called for a goodbye. Lily approached Packy with the laudable intention of saying goodbye.

Elevating herself she placed her forepaws on Packy's hips. Then she gazed earnestly into Packy's eyes. It was the kindest, most regretful look in Lily's entire repertoire. But to Packy's warped vision it was as if the beast were regarding an outcast in a diet mugnons gasping under a consignment of chicken livers. A distant cousin to a shriek left Miss North's lips "Mr. Adams!"

Tacks, who had not been making much progress on his southerly course, wheeled.

"Yes, ma'am?" he said inquiringly.

"For Heaven's sake, take this thing off me. I'll—I'll make some kind of arrangement with you. Though I'll always consider you the lowest of the low."

Elation possessed Tacks.

"My wants are simple," he said. "But it's imperative that you have a date with me this Saturday night. I also stipulate that you let me take you home now."

"Satisfied with that?" asked Packy, pulling back her head to avoid a sort of a pat on the part of Lily's tongue. "You know very well that I have a job."

"Pouf! What's a job compared to being consumed by a ravenous dog in the last stages of madness. Besides, I'll get you another job."

Packy growled. "I call it nothing less than sheer blackmail!"

"It's women like you that drive men like me to blackmail. Come on, Miss North. Think fast."

"Oh, all right. I guess I can manage. Only, please, get this dog away from me."

"Right," said Tacks, with alacrity. He addressed Lily. "Down you, elephant!"

Lily heard and understood. If the Adams could be going to get into it, the dog had gone for the end of the fun. Reluctantly she took her paws off Packy's hips, dropped them to the footpath and stood in a what-next attitude, awaiting further foolishness.

"You see?" Tacks said. "It's easy when you know how."

Boasting And Babbling

PACKY brushed off her skirt indignantly.

"Listen," she said, with perceptible coldness. "It isn't part of this horrible blackmail that I have to stand here while you boast."

She strode away down the path, Tacks at her heels. Lily, though uninvited, came along since there was nothing better to do.

"Why is that dog following us?" Packy demanded presently. "I thought you were going to chase it away."

"That dog," explained Tacks, "recognizes me as a friend."

"Well, I can't say I admire her taste. But I'd rather she didn't come with us."

"Now, Miss North," said Tacks, "be reasonable. This dog has obviously strayed from home. You wouldn't have me let her get run over by a truck or something, would you? I hope you are going to approve of my intention of taking this noble animal to the SPCA."

"Oh, be quiet!" snapped Packy. "As if I isn't bad enough to be here with you against my will without having you—er—babbling!"

"Who's babbling? Why can't we be friends, Miss North?"

"Because we can't, that's why!"

"Socrates would impugn such logic as that."

"I don't give a hoot about Socrates."

"Well, we'll talk about something else. How soon do you think the horse will supplant the airplane?"

"You're not funny really. I've never been so bored in my life."

"You look adorable when bored. I hope you're bored Saturday night."

"I expect to be."

"Well, here we are at the exit. All we need now is a taxi."

A thought struck Packy. "Are you going to force me to ride with that dog?"

Tacks spread his hands. "Well, I can't leave the dog here, can I?"

Packy tossed her head. She knew he was right but she'd be damned if she'd admit it gracefully.

"Oh, come on!" she said. "But I warn you, this is the final insult." Her heels made an angry sound as they clattered down the stone steps.

Much against his will a taxi-driver was finally persuaded to stow Lily away in that space in a cab that is usually reserved for steamer trunks. The cab moved down Fifth Avenue.

"Lovely day for a ride, isn't it?" said Tacks conversationally.

Packy did not reply.

"It's all right to talk," Tacks pursued. "This isn't the Public Library."

"I have no desire to talk to you."

"Gosh you certainly can keep a mad going. It looks as if we'll have a high old time on your way home."

The business man may be likened to the fisherman—he must have patience and bait.

Woman—That's a stunning hat you have on, dear.

Friend—Yes. At any rate that's the effect it had on my husband.

If the door of opportunity sticks—push!

Housewife—Why should a great strong man like you be found begging?

Beggar—It is the only profession I know in which a gentleman can address a beautiful woman without an introduction.

There are two kinds of women who make fools of men—blonds and brunettes.

Man—Yes the smallest thing seem to upset my wife. The other day she was doing a crossword puzzle and she asked me "What is a female sheep?" I said "Eve" and she burst into tears.

Boss—Well, well, I'm glad to notice that you are arriving punctually now.

Clerk—Yes, sir I've bought a parrot now.

Boss—A parrot? What on earth for? I told you to get an alarm clock.

Clerk—I did. But after a day or two I got used to it and it didn't wake me. So I got a parrot. And now when I go to bed, I fix the alarm clock and put the parrot cage on top of it. That bird says when the alarm goes off would wake King Tut himself.

Guest—Well, can't you push it under the door without waking me up so early?

Colored Boy—No suh, it's on a tray.

South Dakota's Black Hills

Many residents of the Black Hills cities think the name is lacking in distinction, and would change it if they could, to strengthen South Dakota's appeal to the tourists.

However, the name "Black Hills" has been identified with the range westward of the city since before the coming of the white man. The Sioux called it "Pa-ha-sa-pa," which means Black Hills in their tongue.

The blackness of the Black Hills consists in the discoloration of the rock outcropping (the first land to emerge on this continent) and the darkness of the surrounding foliage, so that the hills appear quite black from a distance. Even at closer inspection, many of the canyon walls look like rock from chimneys that have seen the smokes of many fires.

State Auto Deaths Showing Increase

Albany, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—For the first time in 18 months, New York state's traffic fatalities are showing an increase, the State Motor Vehicle Department announced today.

Reporting a May traffic death toll of 181, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey said this was an increase of five deaths as compared with the same month last year.

In contrast, both the number of accidents and injuries declined. Accidents numbered 6,128 for a decrease of 239 while injuries totaled 7,832 for a decline of 501.

The May fatality increase, Mealey said, "snaps a record string of life-saving months which began in December, 1937 and ran for 17 consecutive months."

If business is too slow for you get ahead and set your own pace.

Mapping The News Is Germany Getting Ready To Make Another Grab?

By The AP Feature Service
Since the breakup of Czechoslovakia, maps have shown that the territory of that country is held by Germany and Hungary—and a small piece by Poland. They have been fundamentally correct. Theoretically, however, one unit of the former republic emerged from the second major breakup in March as a new state. It is tiny Slovakia (population 2,800,000), "protected" by Germany and given a 25-year promise of independence.

Many Slovaks fear that Germany and Hungary want their territory outright. And German military activity, apparently part of plans looking for a showdown with Poland, is reported in the area indicated on this map. Nevertheless the state plans establishment of a constitutional republic with a president elected for seven years. The capital is Bratislava, in the southwestern corner.

When Is Purple Purple? Most People Don't Know

When is purple purple? When is green green? Most of us don't know. In an age when science reproduces with dazzling accuracy the myriad colors of nature, we are inclined to take color for granted. Until related colors are examined closely, side by side, or until someone disagrees with us over the description of a color, we do not worry much about color names. After all, "what's in a name?"

Thanks to the corner druggist, and to the national association of which he is a member, science has at last undertaken the job of solving the color name problem, writes John H. Crider in the Scientific American. In fact, the national bureau of standards in Washington, backed by the American Pharmaceutical association, has just about finished the classification of the color names of powdered drugs; the naming of microscopic structures and crude drugs is well under way.

The object of the work at the bureau of standards, financed by the American Pharmaceutical association, is to provide "a means of designating colors in the United States Pharmacopoeia, in the National Formulary and in general pharmaceutical literature; such designation to be acceptably to science, sufficiently broad to be appreciated and usable in science, art and industry, and sufficiently commonplace to be understood, at least in a general way, by the whole public."

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, June 29.—Bram Nosen, who will make his first appearance before an Ulster county audience Thursday night in "You Can't Take It With You," is one of the most experienced actors ever to play in Woodstock. During the past season he was with Judith Anderson in "Family Portrait" and with Eva Le Gallienne in "Madam Capet." The previous season he played opposite Marta Abba in "Tovarish" on tour and before that with Maurice Evans in "Richard II." Other engagements in the past few years have been with Walter Huston in "Dodsworth," with Maude Adams in "Twelfth Night" and in a revival of "Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh" with Mrs. Fisk.

Robert Elwyn's Apprentice Group comes from all over the world this season. Alice Sullivan is from Hawaii; Peter Adams, from California; Peggy Fowler, from Virginia; June Morgan, from London; Charlotte Hudson, from Oregon. Other students are Sylvia Kissell, Betty Vandoren, Nancy Sadler, Jean Brewster, Margaret Spickers and Bob Van Kleek.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eric Linden are back from their trip to the World's Fair. Mr. Linden gave his approval of the authenticity of the Swedish food at the Swedish restaurant.

Local youngsters were disappointed Monday night when they missed the Charlie Chaplin comedy which was advertised at the Playhouse for that night. The film had gone astray on the train but was located in time to appear as scheduled on Tuesday night. "Grand Illusion" which is to appear next Monday and Tuesday has never been presented in this section before.

scene but were prevented from entering the place because of the extreme heat. When it was learned that the occupant of the place apparently was unconscious and unable to get out, Fred Wolven entered the building and removed Kiraly. Wolven was not injured.

Kiraly was brought to the Kingston Hospital by the W. N. Conner Ambulance Service where he was cared for by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, company physician, and Dr. Jack Lehner.

The fire in the mixing house was extinguished but not until it had been very badly damaged. None of the buildings which are at some distance from the small structure were threatened. Numerous small mixing plants are scattered over a wide area and are occupied by but one person as a precaution in the event of an accident.

Louis Wins on Technical Kayo; Boxing Show Ready for July 7th

Referee Stops Bout In 2:29 of Fourth, 40,000 Are Thrilled

Two-Ton Tony Puts Up a Game Battle Flooring the Champion for Count in Third Frame

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, June 29 (AP)—The roof finally fell in on Tony Galento last night and nearly killed him, but before it happened the bold New Jersey barkeep gave a great fight crowd in Yankee Stadium a succession of thrills it will not soon forget.

Yes, Champion Joe Louis butchered the poor galoot, sent him falling to his knees bleeding and helpless so that Referee Arthur Donovan had to stop it in 2:29 of the fourth round. That was almost the pre-ordained result. But Tony gave an account of himself that will enshrine him in the mind of those who saw.

Tony, the round-man, never took a backward step. In the third round, when his face already was cut to ribbons and the heart would long since have been beaten out of a less brave fighter, he swung a left to Louis' jaw that sent the champion bouncing on the canvas.

In the opening minutes, when the fight was young, he rocked the big, bronze champion to his heels with another terrific left and for a fleeting instant held the championship in the chubby fists that have drawn ten thousand beers. He did everything he said he would do—except knock out "dat bum." Tony, the man they've all been laughing at, climaxed his career with his greatest performance.

Toughest Fight
Louis, who had knocked out his three previous challengers in less than a round each, said it was the toughest fight he ever had. In that terrible last round, when Galento was defenseless, Joe said he had to hit him a dozen times as hard as he ever hit a man before Tony finally fell into the referee's arms, groping for the ropes in a desperate effort to keep his feet.

Such a great stand did Galento make that he probably will be matched against Lou Nova, recent conqueror of Max Baer, in September. Through battered, puffed lips Tony begged for another chance at Louis, but he won't get that. Nova, at the ringside after the battle, said nothing would suit him better than a few shots at Tony, except a chance at the champion.

Nova Talks
"If I ever staggered Louis the way Tony did he never would get away from me," declared the confident young Californian. "If I'd had him on the floor like Tony did, I would have kept him there. The fellow can't take a punch."

At that, those who had posted money at 7 to 1 on Louis must have come near swallowing their gullets both times Galento landed on Joe's whiskers. Each time all that saved the champion from serious difficulties was Tony's inability to follow up fast. Tony simply couldn't shove his 233 pounds forward and strike again before Louis recovered.

Joe Puzzled
Louis treated his stubby rival with a world of respect after he got clipped the first time. He claimed afterward that it wasn't caution so much as it was his inability to solve Tony's crouching style. But for a time he stepped very lightly and didn't really open up until a series of terrific left hooks had placed Galento at his mercy.

Galento returned to his corner with a cut upper lip at the end of the first round, the first of many cuts he was to receive. They had only been at it a few seconds of the second round when Louis whipped over a left to Tony's jaw that spun him to the floor for a two-count. For the remainder of the chapter Joe handed his dazed opponent a bad beating, but couldn't put him down again.

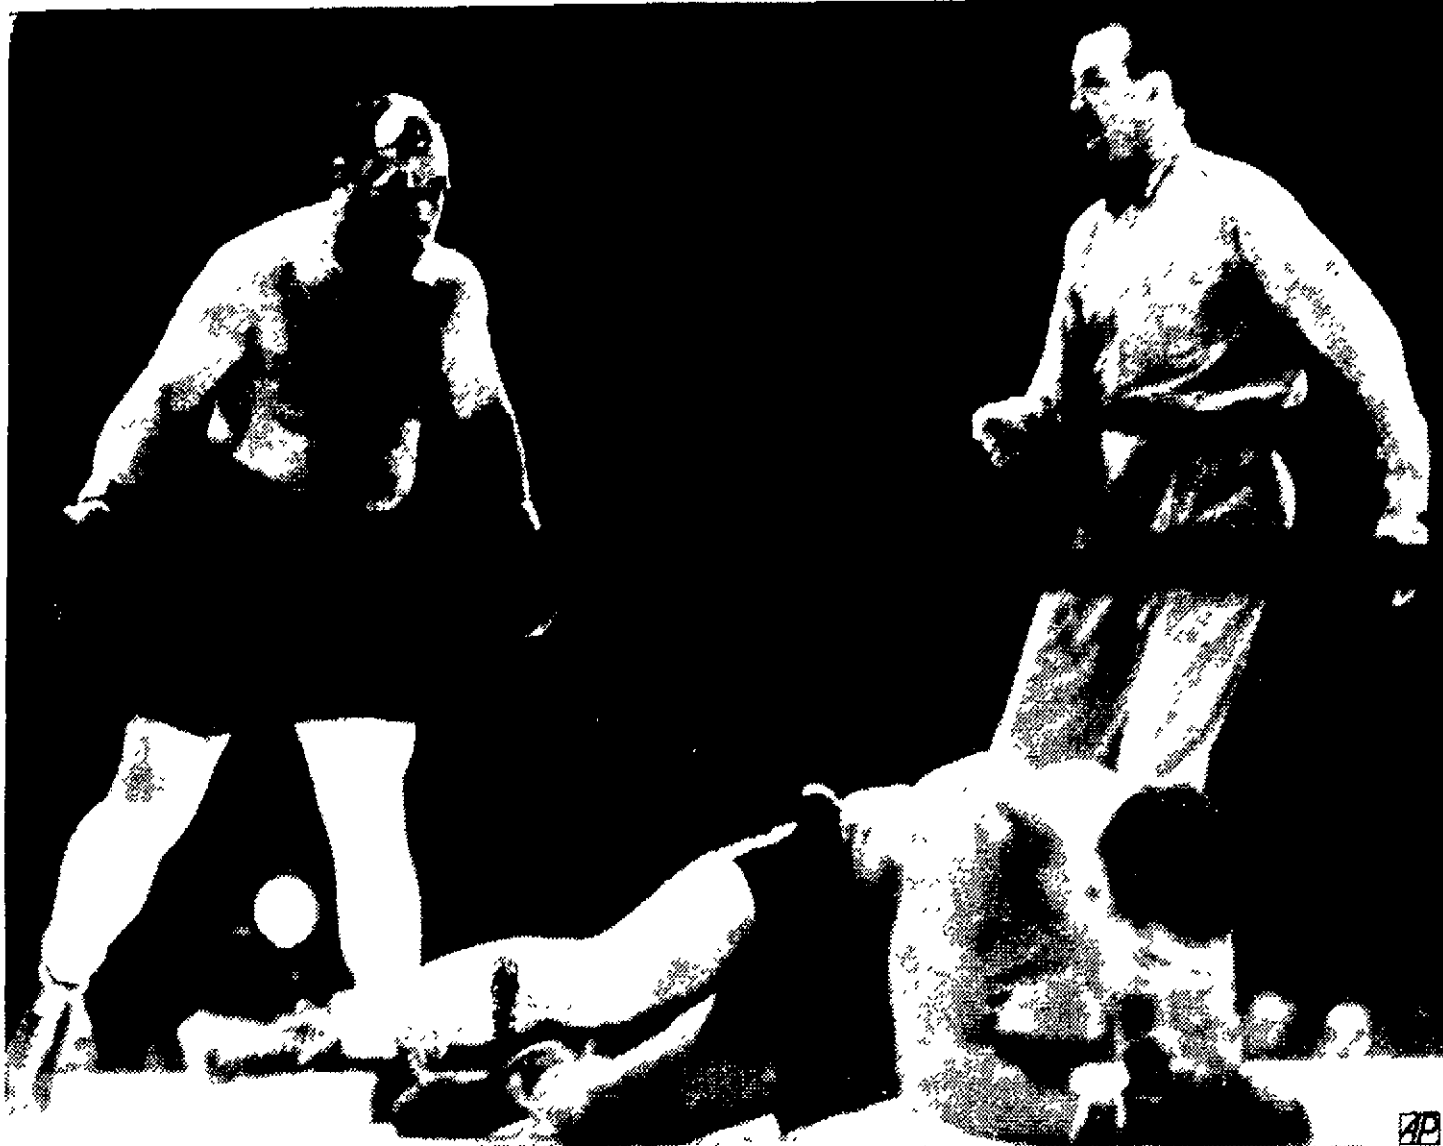

Biggest Thrill
Thus was Tony's knockdown of his tormentor in the third such an electrifying thrill for the crowd of nearly 35,000 Louis had been whipping them into the Orange man's gory face again, staggering him with brutal rights, when Tony from in close brought up a quick right and then a left squarely to the champion's jaw. Joe went down on his pants like he had been clubbed, but quickly braced himself with his hand on the floor and was up again as the timekeeper tolled two. Tony had him going the rest of the round.

Louis started the fourth dancing around and keeping out of Tony's reach, watching for the big chance. Suddenly it came. Two left hooks cracked on Galento's jaw like summer lightning, and he swayed like a tilted barrel but didn't go down. In a breath Louis was on him, pounding sledge-hammer blows into Tony's face. Within 10 seconds he made Galento a horrible sight. It was all over. Mrs. Galento cried bitterly when she saw Tony's face as they led him reeling into the Yanks' dressing room.

Today Louis was heading for Atlantic City for a vacation before returning to Detroit. He didn't know when they would want him to turn his fists loose on another man.

An all-time high in Canadian tobacco production was registered in 1938 when a crop of almost one hundred million pounds were harvested.

Both Battlers Hit the Deck

Those Knockdowns!

In the third round, Galento, looking all washed up, suddenly let go with a desperate left and this time it was Joe Louis who went down. Wow! The champion was hurt and dazed; no doubt about it. But Galento couldn't keep up the fire. The Dark Destroyer recovered and sent home one barrage after the other that finally resulted in Referee Arthur Donovan stopping the fight in 2:29 of the fourth round.

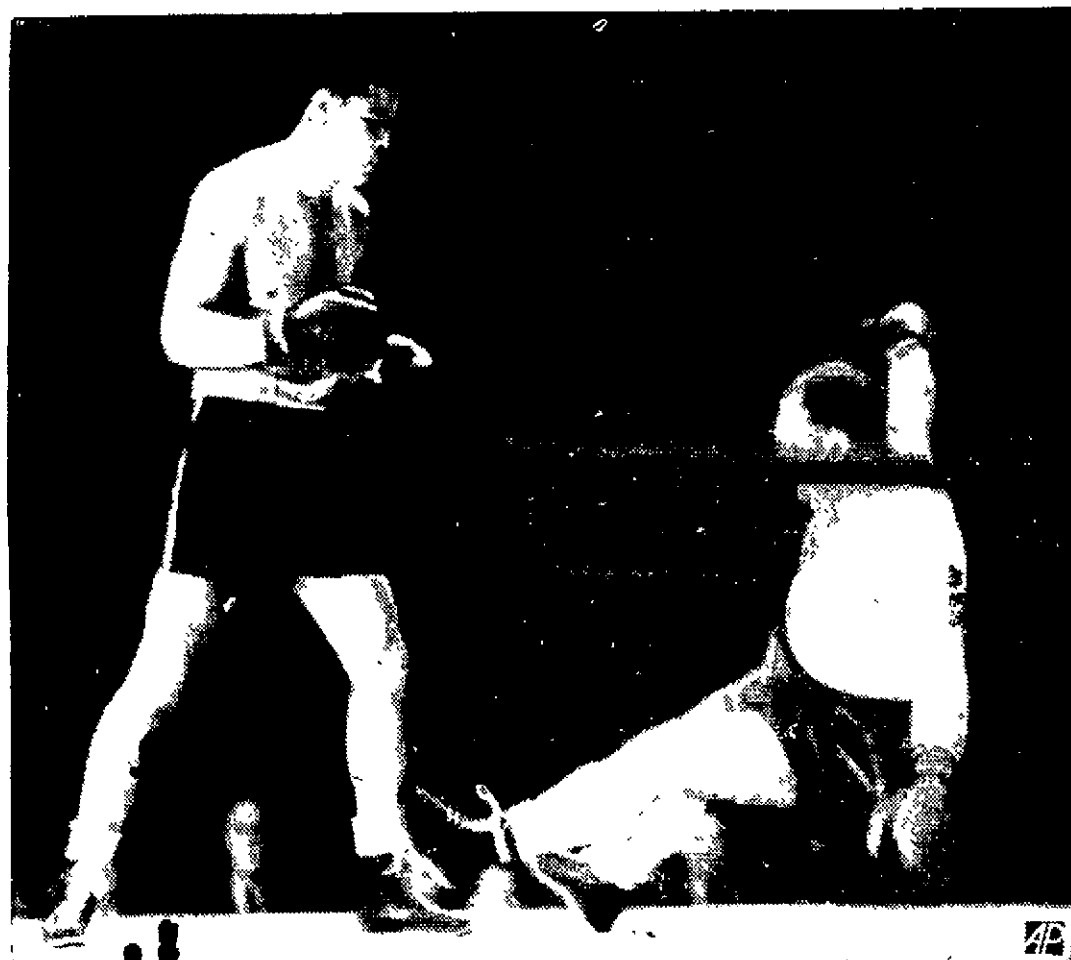

Champion Joe Louis bore down on the gallant Galento in the second round, and out of a fierce bit of exchanging, Two-Ton Tony staggered back on rubbery legs. Then Joe corked him with a right and followed with a left that dumped the rotund barkeep into the resin. Badly cut by this time, Galento arose and instinctively rushed at the Brown Bomber. But, the end was in sight—or so it seemed.

Physician Says Tony Badly Cut

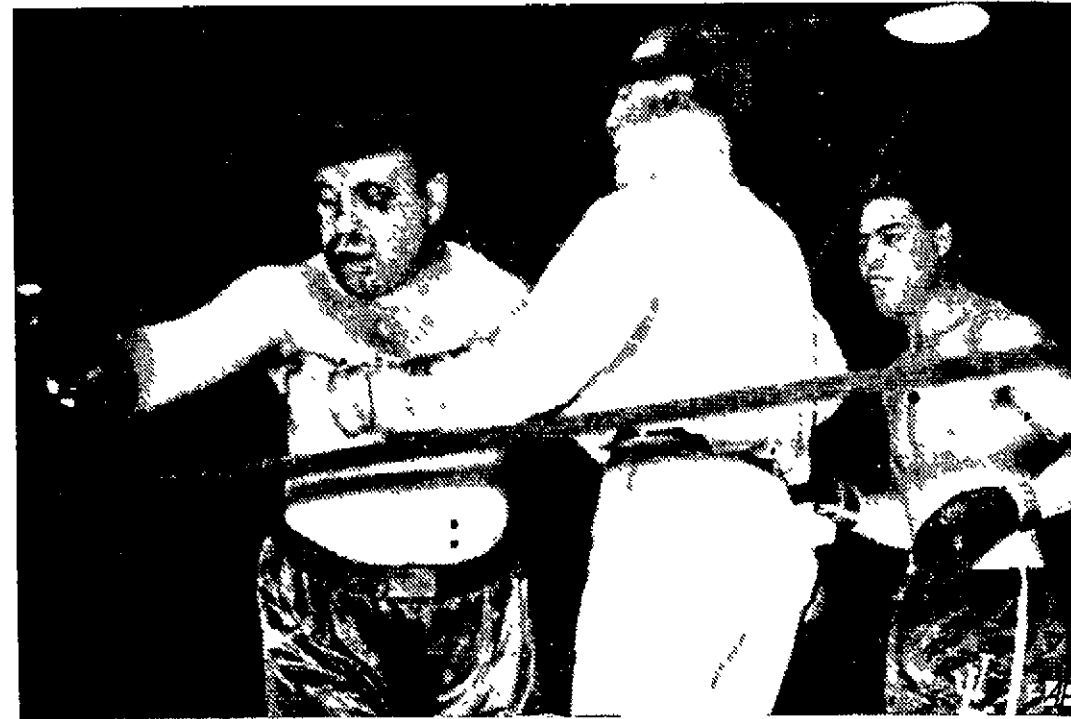

Orange, N. J., June 29 (AP)—The first thing Tony Galento did in his home town early today after being belted by Joe Louis and visiting a doctor, was stop at his beer-place to collect the day's receipts. Then he went home, and, when a few friends dropped in some minutes later, they found Tony, his face striped with bandages, kneeling in front of a low table counting the "take." There was $255—"a good day's business," the pudgy ponder explained, "and it's all because my pals turned out while I was fighting that Louis." He counted and recounted the money, and finally had Herman (Muggsy) Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, count it again to see that he hadn't made a mistake.

Severe Cuts
He did it all after absorbing a beating such as has sent some of Louis' previous challengers to hospitals. "It's amazing," said Dr. Max E. Stern, Newark physician at whose office Tony stopped on his way back from his date with the champion. "He was cut very badly." "The worst cuts," the physician added, "were those running along the right side of his nose, from just under the eye almost to the edge of the mouth; another along his lower lip, and a third at the top of the left eyelid." The one along Tony's nose, the physician explained, had slashed almost all the way through to the inside of his mouth. The one on the lower lip actually did slice right through. "Yeah," Tony shouted, regardless, "and I still want another shot at that Louis. I gave the fans a show tonight, didn't I? And the next time I won't toss away my chances. I'll flatten him."

If you speak of a pitcher winning 32 games in one season, you are usually turning back the clock to the days of Matt and Grover Alexander. Now that the Giants enroll Jimmy Lynn in their pitching staff, you don't have to go back that far. In 1937 Lynn's record with Jacksonville in the East Texas League showed 32 wins against 13 defeats.

WHO'S A BUM NOW?

Bloody, beaten Tony Galento is shown the way out by Referee Arthur Donovan just after the latter had declared Joe Louis the winner on a technical knockout. This, the end, came in 2:29 of the fourth round, before an estimated crowd of 40,000 in New York's Yankee Stadium.

Grunies and Independents Twi-Loop Opponents Tonight

Grunewalds and the Independents form the City League baseball bill of fare at the Athletic Field tonight at 6:30. The Bakers, who dropped a tinging 9-7 duel to Boiceville, will seek to get back on the winning road by upsetting the Indies. Jack Dawkins' crew need this contest to tie the yampering Jones Dairy outfit for the second half leadership. The Powerhouse and the Bakers have hooked up in several hard-fought contests to date and tonight's game is expected to be no exception. Big Joe Mahar or Jackie Strubel will start for the Weismen. Mahar is due for a starting turn with Strubel in reserve. Strubel flashed sensational form against Boiceville last Thursday, allowing but three scattered hits in eight frames. Grunies beat themselves Tuesday in their Boiceville

Contracts Signed For Auditorium Bouts Next Week

Vines, Zano, Servo, Pinti Matched for 32-Round Professional Boxing Card —Show Rain or Shine

Contracts were signed today and submitted to the New York State Athletic Commission for the card of professional boxing bouts in the auditorium, Friday night, July 7.

The lineup of scraps as announced by the Kingston Sports Enterprises, Inc., is:

Eight Round Star Bout
Vince Vines (Vince Sempervino), Schenectady, vs. Stanley Miller, U. S. Army welter champion from New York.

Six Rounders
Tommy Zano, Glasco Hurricane, vs. Nat Kadin, Jewish idol of New York's east side.

Mario Severino (Marty Servo) Schenectady, vs. Larry Esposito, New York's fighting Spaniard.

Four Rounders
Hugo DuBaldi, Newburgh, vs. Al Zelenski, Brooklyn.
Billy Pinti, Rome featherweight, vs. Al Kerner, Bronx belter.
Pat Celli, Newark, vs. Pedro Hernandez, New Haven, Conn.

When Viny Vines climbs through the ropes at the auditorium boxing fans will see one of the best prospects of the amateurs whose chances of becoming welterweight champion are very bright. Since turning pro, the Vince Sempervino of the simon pures has scored eight knockouts in 13 fights which he fought in the Hippodrome and some of New York's most prominent clubs. His fight purses run as high as $350 a bout now.

Stanley Miller, the pugilist who ruled the U. S. Army welter ranks for a year and half, was picked to oppose Vines here because he's the kind of battler who keeps boring in, punching for the full route. Severino (Marty Servo) has won professional fights, beating top-notch material. Among the boys he has defeated are Al Ragona, Tommy Fontana and Monty Pignatore. Mario started right in as a six round fighter, having gained enough experience in the Adirondack A. A. U. to skip the four-round class in the pros.

Tommy Zano, the Glasco belter, who got his start as an amateur at the auditorium, probably will get the biggest reception when he climbs through the ropes. This ever popular leather tosser has a problem to figure out in Nat Kadin, the Jewish lad who is the only fighter to floor Jackie Kid Berg since his comeback.

Indications are that the boxing patrons will flock to the auditorium for this professional card bringing to Kingston some of the best fighters around New York.

Brown Fans 13 Batters But Troy Shuts Out Colonials In League Contest 13-0

Although Big Joe Brown fanned exactly 13 Troy batters last night at the Collar City, the hapless Kingston Colonials absorbed a cruel 13 to 0 shutout. Mark Filley hurled for the Bearcats and was touched for only five hits, all singles. Brown, who pitched good enough ball to win, was the victim of his teammates sloppy backing. In all, six errors were committed by the Davemen.

Playing in the first game of the second half, the Colonials really looked worse instead of better than they have during the first round.

Charlie Francello at short and Charlie Lay at second made up a very poor second base combination. Between the two, four errors were committed. Captain Charlie Husta committed the other two.

In his seven inning tenure, Joe Brown was nicked for 13 hits but as the game turned out, the bingles would have been bad info scoring 13 runs. Most of the base knocks came after the infield had some up with costly bobbles.

Two new players saw service with the Colonials last night, Jim Mallagan in right field and Norm Jacobsen doing the catching. Jacobsen rapped out one hit in three trips. According to Manager Dave Pultz, a second sacker, will make his debut tonight when the Colonials play in Bennington, Vt.

Troy took a 6-0 lead in the first four frames and then really knocked the offerings of Brown in the seventh when no less than seven runs came across the plate to make it a complete burial. Every player on the Troy team enjoyed a hitting fest except Ploski.

After Casey grounded out in Troy's first, Cunka singled to left and Willie Kane walked. Their first run was registered on Shine Kane's biff into center. Don Sherman ended the inning by going down on strikes. Run number two came over in the second. Brown fanned Plante but was worked for a pass by Jim Yanni to start their surge. Yanni romped all the way from first to home on Mark Filley's long double into center.

Three in 4th
Brown experienced a few more nightmares in the fourth frame when three runs dusted the payoff dirt. Brown, however, was the victim. Two men were retired but on the third man, Charlie Lay tossed Plante's easy bouncer high over Schatzel's head for an error. This started the damage. Before Kingston knew what was what, the three markers had been accounted for.

Something unusual happened in the fifth and sixth frames when Troy (believe it or not) failed to come in with a single tally. But there was a catch. In the seventh, the lucky seventh, the Bearcats took up where the powerhouse had left off in the fourth and before the smoke cleared, seven more runs came across the plate. Two more were away though before the damage had been done. Charlie Husta took Filley's infield sock and pushed it far over Schatzel's head at first. After that it was a question of how many runs would score before the Bearcats got too tired to do any more legging around the sacks.

Play Tonight
Tonight the Colonials play a first half game with Bennington at the Vermont diamond. Charlie Neff will get the assignment to make an attempt at putting Kingston on the winning road.

Bush and Celuch Leading City League Mound Records

Bob "Schoolboy" Bush, Independents ace, and Georgie Celuch, Jones Dairy meat-cleaver, topped the City League first-half pitching parade. Bush and Celuch each won four out of five official starts for an .800 average, according to the official hurling statistics released by Secretary Jim Geoghan. Bush, working in six tilts, flipped 30 frames allowing 16 runs on but 28 bingles. The Indies ace fanned 32 (one less than Celuch) and walked 15, as did Celuch.

Bush fanned 10 Boiceville batters in the opener while Celuch whipped 12 strikeouts past the Wiltwicks for highest per game during the first half. Celuch hurled 25 innings, allowing 14 tallies on 30 safe socks and took strikeout honors with 44 whiffs. Celuch turned in two four-hitters and a dazzling two-hit game against Wiltwicks. Bush came up with a two-hitter against Jones Dairy, a four-hitter and two six-blows performances.

Lane Works Hard
Red Lane, Boiceville one-man staff, was the hardest worker, toiling 33 frames. Lane's control was near perfect, the Mountaineer ace walking but four batters in five games. Big Joe Mahar, Grunwalds, was most leuculent with free tickets to first, walking 19 batters, while Slight allowed the most runs, 23 in all. Slight lost all three games officially but Lane had four games in the lost column most games dropped.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

If anyone wishes to make something of it, the New York Yankees still are the slugging Samsons of baseball.

There were a few sly digs made earlier this season about the champions losing interest or the touch for home run spears and there were some scattered challenges from other clubs for the honor.

But yesterday the world champions swamped the Philadelphia Athletics under a stray of 13 homers to sweep a doubleheader, 23-2 and 10-0, and break the existing major league records for homers both in one game and in two consecutive games.

Seven of the Yankees participated in the show, doubtless leaving Red Rolfe much embarrassed at being the only regular to fire blanks. Nine of the circuit clouts were divided evenly between Babe Dahlgren, Joe Gordon and Joe DiMaggio, with George Selkirk, Bill Dickey, Tommy Henrich and Frank Crosetti in for one each.

The eight blows the Bronx Bombers bunched in the first game were the most important because they broke a mark established by Detroit in the original National League in 1886 and tied just five times since then. These were a part of the 27 hits the champions collected. Besides setting a new home run record the Yankees also set an American League standard for total bases with 53, three more than the 1936 Yankees put together in a single contest.

Cagy Connie
Cagy old Connie Mack, realizing from long experience that the Yankees were having one of their festive days when one pitcher would make as good a victim as another, used his hurlers sparingly. After letting three tossers take all the punishment in the first game, Mack kept George Caster on the firing line through a five-run disturbance in the fifth before dispatching relief.

The turbulent hitting of the Yankees overshadowed some excellent hurling from their own department. Monte Pearson permitted the Athletics just seven hits in the first game and Lefty Gomez cut this allotment to three in the nightcap.

All the other American League

This year's maple syrup crop in New York state is said to have surpassed last year's output both in quality and quantity. Cool weather in April helped the quality.

Yankees set new home run records

Six New York Yankees shake hands—all at once—in the dressing room at Philadelphia after setting a new all-time major league home run record in the first game of a double-header against the Athletics. The Yanks also broke the record for consecutive games—with 8 homers in the first and 5 in the second. Left to right, George Selkirk, Tom Henrich, Babe Dahlgren, Joe Gordon, Joe DiMaggio and Bill Dickey. The scores: 23-2 and 10-0.

KELLY'S CORNER • BY JOE KELLY

Bud Fromer Joins Hol-in-One Club— Preview at the New Stadium

Joe Louis said over the radio last night he'd probably meet Lou Nova next. . . . But it probably will be the Brown Bomber and Bob Pastor in Detroit in September. . . . That's the way Mike Jacobs wants it, and he's the boss. . . . He's working on Louis' handlers right now. . . . This may mean Nova and Galento at Philadelphia late this summer or early in the fall. . . . Then will come a match between the winners next June in the Yankee Stadium. . . . Don't forget there's a City Baseball League game tonight. . . . Those pitching records show Bobby Bush and Georgie Celuch as the top-ranking hurlers of the first half. . . . Congrats to Bud Fromer, the Amoco oil man, for his hole in one at Twaitskill recently. . . . There's plenty of favorable talk among fight lovers about the pro card arranged for Friday, July 7, at the municipal auditorium. . . . This set of scraps for money will be the first since the American Legion ran them here. . . . Remember that fight between Petey

Hayes and Ernest Torres? . . . That was a honey. . . . Although the new stadium is not supposed to be officially opened until the police baseball teams clash there a month from today, July 29th, Sid Lutzin counts on bringing his big track meet into the uptown park Saturday, July 22. . . . Sort of a preview. . . . A.P. notes from the Louis-Galento ringside (Eddie Briets broadcasting): What surprised the boys was not that Galento hit and hurt Louis—everybody knew he could hit—but that he stood up so well under Louis' murderous punches. . . . Nobody can question old Tony's gameness. . . . He was in there slugging when a lot of other guys we could name would have been on the deck and glad to be there. . . . General Phelan said: "It was a good fight and on the level." . . . Nobody holered gimmick. . . . A couple of Bronx process servers charged into Louis' dressing room after the fight, but got the old heavyweight champ, is blind, but he came all the way from New Orleans to be present.

Fullers 7-5

The position of the Downtown Merchants in the Open Division of the City Softball League became a little less secure last night when they blew a 5-0 lead in the third inning to lose to Fuller's Shirtsman 7-5.

The Shirtsman went to town in the fourth inning scoring three runs on several hits and an error by Swint. Again in the seventh inning they took Schatzel's offerings for enough hits, and again assisted by Merchant errors, brought across four more runs.

Snyder was the winning pitcher for Fullers, and topped the evening's performance off in the last inning when Sid (the mighty Casey) Spiegel, went down swinging leaving a man stranded on third.

Babe Coughlin made the fielding sensation of the evening on a fast pick-up in the outfield.

At Loughran Park last night the Jones Dairy team defeated the Morgans in an Open Division softball game. Jimmy Morgan, playing second for his club, robbed Colvin of what looked like a sure hit.

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—It would seem that all David Freeman needs to win a championship of some kind is a racquet.

It matters little what kind of racquet, because 18-year-old David excels in tennis, badminton, squash and even table tennis.

On top of that, this tow-headed youngster shoots golf in the 80's has a high bowling score of 235 (seven consecutive strikes enlivened the game) and finds time to rattle off A's and B's on his report card.

Stock Market Lost Ground Wednesday

Apparently taking little if any interest in a number of items of favorable domestic news the stock market again lost ground yesterday, all averages showing substantial declines. Industrials as measured in the Dow-Jones averages dropped 2.59 points, closing at 132.83. Over half of this loss was registered in the final hour of trading, when 230,000 of the day's total of 540,000 shares changed hands. The rails dropped 0.62 point, to 26.82 and utilities were off 0.39 point, to 23.24. Various reasons are advanced for the lack of interest on the part of investors, including the uncertainty as to what Congress is likely to do and the situation in Europe. In the opinion of some the latter is considered to have the most weight just at present, particularly the rumors that German officers and men are entering Danzig to form a "free corps" and that a German coup to seize Danzig is imminent.

Commodities closed irregularly lower. Cotton futures closed at the day's lows, with losses of from four to 12 points; spot month sagged to 9.41 cents a pound. Wheat reacted after early firmness and closed off 1-8 to 1-4 cents a bushel.

International Business Machines declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.50, payable October 10. Madison Square Garden Corp. pays quarterly of 25 cents. Other declarations are: Hecker Products, quarterly of 15 cents; Hercules Powder, $1.50 on preferred; Sun Ray Drug, 20 cents and 37 1/2 cents on preferred. Angostura-Wuppermann passes dividend for second quarter, to provide for more intensive sales and advertising efforts.

Allison Engineering Corp., subsidiary of General Motors, has a War Department order for $15,080,261 worth of plane motors. Wright Aeronautical has an order for engines worth $8,975,317 and Pratt and Whitney one for $953,810.

The Mexican mining chamber has announced that if the U. S. stops buying foreign silver, as provided in action taken by the Senate Monday, the billion dollar Mexican mining industry will be ruined. Meanwhile Hasty & Harman lowered their price for foreign silver another two cents, making a drop of five cents in the past two days.

The Stock and Curb Exchanges decided against closing on Saturdays during the summer. AAR reports that Class 1 railroads had net operating income in May of $25,100,765 as against $16,665,084 in May last year. A special writer in the Wall Street Journal says that the agitation in Congress over the President's power to devalue the dollar does not appear to be worrying the government's own technical men. He writes: "The power to devalue the dollar by an additional nine per cent of its pre-depression gold content is not generally regarded by officials here as a matter of great importance. Mr. Roosevelt's Hyde Park blast has, of course, made it quite impossible for them to say so."

Electric power output for the week ended June 24 totaled 2,285,083,000 kwh, highest since February 24 and an increase of 13.2 per cent over the like week in 1938.

Faded Cartagena Still Bears Imprint of Past

The scrawl of history—written in stone and metal—is still spread across the worn facades of Cartagena, Santa Marta and Puerto Colombia, picturesque cities of Colombia, northernmost country of South America and colorful link in the cruise chain of the Great White Fleet.

Cartagena, especially, bears the imprint of other centuries, the patina of antiquity giving a hint of the atmosphere that was Cartagena's before Columbus sailed for the Indies.

To the pleasure-traveler to the tropics, the city is an unending source of wonder: a city whispering of Spanish dons and the wash-buckling days of Henry Morgan and Sir Francis Drake.

Seventy million dollars was spent to fortify Cartagena against marauders. Today, her 40-foot seawall still encircles the city, its lichen-clad, mosquito-eaten turrets speaking of the days of ball and grape. Once in the days when Colombia's life was a turbulent one of clash and change the stone cubicles were prison cells.

Vestiges of Cartagena's fortifications are flung all over the city. For miles along the waterfront are ramparts, varying in width from 40 to 100 feet. Besides them are moats, now overgrown with weeds. Strawn here and there on the matted brush are fragments fallen from sentry boxes.

Inside the city, history still intrudes into the present. Ancient cathedrals, shaded patios and crumbling dwellings tell stories of thequisition, of the slashing invasions of Drake and Morgan, and of the years when gold flowed from the New world to the Spain of yesterday.

Charles X Responsible For Racing in France

Racing is supposed to have come into France from across the channel, and most sources credit its introduction into the country to the efforts of the Comte d'Artois, brother of Louis XVI and later Charles X of France, and it is supposed to have been on November 10, 1776, that the first event of this sort took place in this country. The race was run at Versailles, near the Chateau de Clagny. The French became so enthusiastic over this new sport that money flew about recklessly, and the sage Louis XVI tried, but in vain, to curb the betting.

Today there are race courses in the Paris region alone at Longchamp and Auteuil in the Bois de Boulogne, at Vincennes, Chantilly, Maisons-Laffitte, La Tremblay; and every important resort has an excellent race track, a long racing season, and a Grand Prix, the biggest purse of which is the Vichy Grand Prix for 300,000 francs on the first Sunday in August.

To the Duc de Morny, half-brother of Napoleon III, credit must be given for choosing Longchamp as the site of a new racetrack in 1838. He meant it to outclass all other tracks in beauty and style. The empress herself came to the first race; over 700 carriages and 300 horseback riders caused such a crush at the opening that the first race had to be postponed for a half hour. In 1863 the Grand Prix of Paris was established.

Senate Passes Relief Measure

for $10,000,000 extra in farm tenancy loans.
The chamber also approved an amendment by Senator Russell (D., Ga.) doubling a $300,000 allowance for public health service administrative expenses.

Theatre, Music, Art
The Senate agreed to permit expenditure of 1/2 of 1 per cent of the total appropriated for projects providing funds for such projects as the federal theatre, art and music projects without local sponsorship.

The House had voted to eliminate all such projects and to prohibit any expenditure for a WPA theatre project.

When the final vote came, however, many of the senators who had stayed for hours to help maintain a quorum were home in bed.

On the stroke of midnight Vice President Garner, who usually is in bed by 9 p. m., emerged from a cloakroom and marched across the Senate floor for a word with Democratic Leader Barkley. Garner had not been in evidence earlier in the evening, but his place was taken by Senator LaFollette (Prog., Wis.), who pounds a gavel nearly as vigorously.

The warmest argument of the evening broke out when Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) asked that projects sponsored only by WPA be granted 1 per cent of the fund.

Asks Condemnation
Senator Reynolds urged that the federal theatre project be condemned to the ash cans of oblivion. He told the Senate that on the project "real actors are not employed, most of them are hams," and that it was "in the hands of the communists."

"The more we bring communism into the open," replied Senator McCarran (D., Nev.), "the more we will know what it is in order to condemn it. The only thing we have to fear is fear itself—produced by someone who always and forever talks about the bugbear of communism."

They teach anything but morality," Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) put in, referring to WPA theatre productions. "This is the people's money, and who's going to see that the morale of the country is not shot to pieces?"

Senator Murray (D., Mont.), supported by Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), made a brief fight to boost the WPA appropriation to $2,250,000,000. The Senate shouted down the proposal. Among the amendments accepted was one by Senator McCarran requiring payment of prevailing local wage rates on WPA projects.

Morgenthau Voices Opposition to Cut
time, today, to check any move to "dump" foreign silver here.

Unfortunate Time
Morgenthau said he could not "imagine any more unfortunate time" for the President to lose his dollar devaluation power.

Asked what he meant, he referred reporters to newspaper stories of renewed tension between Germany and Poland and England and Japan.

"Suppose someone starts competitive devaluation of currencies on July 1, what can we do?" Morgenthau asked.

He said a lapse of devaluation power and the resultant difficulty of United States in offsetting another country's devaluation might endanger the tri-partite agreement by which the United States, England and France contracted in 1937 to fight competitive devaluation.

Reminded that the Senate voted to extend the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund operated under this agreement, Morgenthau said that unless Congress finishes the monetary bill in time, the $2,000,000,000 automatically will revert to the general fund of the Treasury and leave nothing for stabilization operations.

Buckner Rests His Case in U. S. Court
mandated, "that not a single dollar came to you from the bondholders since you met Hyde in Hollywood in the fall of 1938?"

"That is true," said Buckner, whom the prosecution said courted Loretta Young, movie star, on his Hollywood trip, leaving to Turner the less pleasant task of raising expenses for further efforts to redeem the bonds.

after January 1, 1940. Just before final passage, Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he would support the bill, but only because the time remaining before July 1 was too short to obtain sweeping changes in relief administration. Senators Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and Barbour (R., N. J.) would propose for future consideration a bill to change the system on July 1, 1940, requiring the federal government to contribute 65 2-3 per cent of the combined cost of work and direct relief and turning administration of the whole program over to the states.
